Design Home Shows

March 21, 2010

This weekend was simply beautiful! Went to NYC, the temperature was in the 70's and people walking around were just happy! Why? We finally got a break, no SNOW! I attended Architectural Digest's Home Design and Dining By Design shows! I've attended Architectural Digest's Home Show for the past 4 years and each year it gets bigger and better! It's held near the end of March for 3 days at Piers 92 & 94 (near 55th street on the West Side Highway).

There's no way that I could show you everything, there were so many designers, decorators and vendors, PACKED! Sssshh, but I did sneak and take a few pictures of the different dining themes displayed. Spring is here and summer is on the way, take a look below (click View All images), perhaps you can get some great ideas! I had a lot of fun!! 😊
