NYC & Company Invites New Yorkers To Find Design Inspiration At The Architectural Digest Home Design Show In New York City

NYC & Company, the City's marketing, tourism and partnership organization, invites New Yorkers and visitors alike to find inspiration and design ideas from the worldclass talent, seminars and exhibits during the four day run of the eighth annual Architectural Digest Home Design Show (ADHDS) in New York City beginning March 26.

The Show's expert designers will not only showcase the latest in architectural concepts and trends, but offer recession-friendly tips in small space solutions, storage ideas, and free one-on-one design consultations. The ADHDS is expected to bring more than 24,000 visitors to New York City, and will feature more than 300 companies, representing leading manufacturers, designers and retailers.

"The Architectural Digest Home Design Show and New York City are a perfect pairing," said George Fertitta, CEO of NYC & Company. "New York City has long been the home of the leading and most respected designers in the world, and a place that defines and inspires the latest trends. With more than 24,000 people expected to attend this year's event, the Home Design Show is an important event for New York City, and we're thrilled to welcome back visitors and exhibitors for the eighth year."
