New York, NY, United States (CNS) - New York City will be kicking off their annual "Go Green Expo" on March 19. Green enthusiasts can once again learn more about environmentally friendly goods and services for use in modern everyday living.

The expo will feature over 200 booths and exhibits, interactive seminars, a green marketplace and demonstrations and hands on activities. Companies that specialize in eco-friendly goods and services will be on hand to show how they are changing the way they do business to help for a greener tomorrow.

This year's expo will be held at Pier 92 and will be co-located with the Architectural Digest Home Design Show.

Tickets for the Go Green Expo will include admission to the Architectural Digest Home Design Show will retail for $25 for a full weekend pass.
