Special to Newsday

The 10th annual Architectural Digest Home Design Show opens to the public today at Pier 94 in Manhattan. More than 400 high-end artists and luxury brands will be presenting home design offerings at the show. Here, some Long Island-based designs on display.

Rock star

Artsaics is a custom stone and tile company that produces all of its products in Deer Park. The company's handiwork has graced the Westhampton Country Club, the Sebonack Golf Club in Southampton and even the White House, and its latest collection, univo (starting at $90 a square foot), can be viewed at booth 454 or purchased at the company's Huntington showroom.

Light show

Southampton designer Art Donovan's Thin White Duke lamp is handmade from mahogany, brass and glass ($29,000). The 49-inch-tall piece evokes Donovan's steampunk aesthetic and is a one-of-a-kind, signed work. The artist's work can be seen at his Southampton gallery, online at donovandesign.com or at booth M26 in the MADE section.

Cold case

Sub-Zero is taking chilly to the next level with the new 27-inch all-freezer and all-refrigerator units in its Integrated Columns line ($6,000 each). The latest designs have no visible grilles or hinges, and can be merged into almost any decor. These appliances, as well as the full Sub-Zero line, can be seen at the company's Roslyn Heights showroom or at booth 151. Visit subzero.com/east for more information.

Lawn shop

The stainless-steel Deuker-Germany Circo couch ($6,500) from Covertech is part of a line of luxury outdoor furniture designs that includes vinyl woven wicker and pressure-molded PVC furniture. Covertech's range of outdoor furniture can be seen at booth 149, at its Southampton showroom or online at poolcovertech.com.

Smart art

Bridgehampton-based design firm Modern Digital Canvas creates archival-quality ready-to-hang modern canvases. The Jumbo canvas ($379) is a whopping 58 by 43 inches and is available in a variety of designs. The company also offers free shipping. View more designs online at Md-canvas.com or at booth 372.

Desk set

Nico Yektai, a Sag Harbor-based furniture designer, likes his work to show the effect of natural aging and movement. The three-drawer maple Desk #2 ($11,000) is his latest piece, and he will be debuting it at the show. View more of Yektai's designs online at NicoYektai.com, or at booth M125 in the MADE section.
