Architectural Digest Home Show – Day 1

March 20th, 2011 | Author: Petra

I spent most of yesterday walking through the very crowded Architectural Digest Home Design Show at Pier 94. I've attended the show for many years now and I have to say this was the best show I've seen in terms of quality of products and number of attendees. Maybe it's due to the addition of Margaret Russell to AD (formerly the editor in chief of Elle Decor) or maybe it's that projects have started to pick back up. Whatever the reason you could feel the buzz and excitement in the air. And the products and vendors I saw were absolutely the best of the best. Of course I love looking at everything, but it's always the eco-friendly or socially responsible products that really catch my eye. Since this year's show was so great and I found so many amazing things, I'm going to break my pics into two posts. Check back tomorrow for more!

These are my top eco-friendly finds, in no particular order:

These gorgeous pillows come from D. Bryant Archie Textiles who also won an ASID Imagine Top Pick for her presentation. Her wool blankets and pillows have always topped of my list of favorites and this award couldn't have gone to a more deserving, talented and lovely person. Her newest line made from metallic vintage fabric as shown in the two pictures on the right, is super chic.

This awesome little console table comes from Jeff Soderbergh, who if you remember, also made the beautiful reclaimed wood table featured in the 2010 House Beautiful Kitchen of the Year. This new console is made from wood taken from the hull an antique schooner that was built in 1885. I love the copper nailheads spotted all over the wood which gives it such character. Jeff has plenty of this unique wood left so hopefully we'll be seeing more pieces from him soon.

I'm really in love with these clocks from Palo Samko. I've always known him as an incredibly talented furniture maker, so it's great to see that he's added accessories to his repertoire. I would mind time passing by quickly if I had one of these clocks to stare at.

sustainable side of luxury. I feature my favorite eco-friendly interiors, decor and home furnishings.

This gorgeous chandelier comes from Elizabeth Polish Design and it's made entirely of paper (except for the framing of course). I just love the organic feel of this fixture and I can only imagine the soft light it casts in a room. Custom options are always available for any project.

How cool is this table from Studio Roeper? I love the contrast of the salvaged bleached wood and the metallic faceted legs.

I have to say that my pictures don't do any sort of justice to these stunning art installations from Moran/Brown. They're made of small copper tiles that have been heated so they change color into these vibrant shades you see here. And all without any chemical processing. You have to take a peek on their website at some of their larger pieces to really get an idea of what Moran/Brown can do. I'm not sure I'd want Lady Gaga hanging on my wall, but you get the idea of their capabilities.

I'm always a fan of the industrial vintage look so I'm loving these light fixtures from Strawser & Smith who are based in Brooklyn. Each one is made out of various industrial parts like chains, pipes and cogs. The glass is also hand blown right here in New York.

And of course, I'm always a fan of the New Traditionalists and their elegant and tailored line of eco-friendly furniture. They have a few gorgeous new finishes which was great to see in person.
